BERTRAM SPENCER MAY BE SANE NOW.

Week on Court Order. With the return of Bertram G. Spencer from the Bridgewater institution to the Hampden county jail, Springfield, after a period of observation lasting nearly ten months, the question of what will be the next step question of what will be the next step in the proceedings is the perplexing issue which is unanswered by those who are in a position to know, says the Springfield Union.

Spencer, who is a native of Lebanon, Conn., was removed on Wednesday to the jail upon an order from Chief Justice John A. Aiken of the superior court. uperior court, When Shariff E. P. Clark was asked

When Sheriff E. P. Clark was asked regarding the case Wednesday he declared that Spencer had waxed fat and reticent, and that he does not talk so freely with his jail guards a during his confinement in the jail before being ordered to the Bridgewater institution. It is probable that Spencer now fully realizes the gravity of the charge of murdering Miss Martha B. Blackstone, which has been pending against him since his arraignment last year.

During the first 24 hours of his con-finement he had not received and visit-ors and it was learned that his young ors and it was learned that his young wife is now working in a Massachusetts city and that their only child, a baby boy, is being cared for by the prisoner's parents in Lebanon.

Three courses of procedure lie before Spencer's attorneys, according to lawyers, and of the three, trial by jury for the murder of Miss Blackstone, looks by far the likeliest to the prefession, "Why, he can stand for trial," said one lawyer. "I see no necessity for any other action. A motion for a commission to examine into his sanity, might be made, but I don't think it is necessary and this is done only in extreme cases. I recall only only in extreme cases. I recall only one such at this moment."

Other than facing trial for the killing of Miss Blackstone and a motion for a sanity commission, there remains the alternative of pleading guilty to second degree murder. mains the alternative of pleading guilty to second degree murder.

It is recognized, however, that the case must receive disposal eventually and that it will come late in the fall is believed by men in a position to know. It is denied by those interested in the defense of the Round hill murderer that the Bridgewater reports indicate that Spencer is sane at the present time, even though Chief Justice Alken's order is taken to be sufficient evidence that the reports contain reason for bringing him to this city to stand trial.

The defence for Spencer will still be that he is now mentally unsound and that he is now mentally unsound and that he was insane at the time of the murder. During the ten months and more that he has been at the Bridgewater asylum he has been examined frequently by expert olienists, presumfrequently by expert olienists, presumably for both sides of the case, and for this reason it may be presumed that a motion may be made for the appointment of a commission to adjudge if he is sane. Such a motion has not been filed and usually in such cases this action is taken prior to the change of place of confinement of the prisoner and unless the usual procedure is upset in this case, this may be reason enough to believe that a trial by jury is coming in the fall. It will not come in September at any event and is said to be slated for late in the year.

and is said to be slated for late in the year.

Chief Justice John A. Alken was interviewed at his home in Greenfield. The chief justice had little to say concerning the situation. He regarded the reports which have come each month from Bridgewater as of a professional character and that which led to the order bringing Spencer back to the city to await trial he considered in the same category. These findings, the chief justice said, have been submitted to the counsel on both sides and referentirely to Spencer's beravior while in to the counsel on both sides and referentirely to Spencer's beravior while in the Bridgewater asylum, and the man charged with murder will be given a hearing or a trial trils fall. Meanwhile he will be kept in the York street

Spencer is reported not to have been Spencer is reported not to have been a popular inmate at Bridgewater. Whatever may have been the opinion of the doctors, the attendants at the institution have not believed that he was insane. It is reported that even there he displayed some of his old disposition to make trouble, although his craftiness appeared in putting up others to do it, so that he would not get caught himself. His mother has visited him there at least once since his caught nimself. His mother has vis-ted him there at least once since his imprsonment. Spencer is reported to have said that it was very hard that he should be confined in such a place until it was brought flatly to his attention that he stood under the charge of mur-

Several other trees in the vicinity were blown down. One Norwich man who was down in that direction described a big black cloud that took on the appearance of a whirtwind, but he was probably aided by an active imagination. In some places the heavy rain fall caused some good sized gullies. Much fruit was blown off by the wind, but in spite of the sharp lightning the telephone lines came through unharmed.

GLEE CLUB BOYS QUAKER HILL FETE Academy Four Was in Excellent Voice

-Guests of Mr. Comstock. Singing in excellent voice and making their customary big hit with the audience, a quartette made up of four members of last year's Academy Boys' Glee club appeared at the lawn fete given at Quaker Hill Baptist church Wednesday evening. The quartette comprised Woodruff Sullivan first tenor; Lowell R. Stark, second tenor; Benjamin M. Bruce, first bass, and John Comstock second bass, and it rendered school and college songs in a manner that gained hearty applause from all the large number who were at the fair, many from New London and this city being present. The Norwich boys went down at the invitation of Mr. Comstock, whose home is there, and they aided materially in making the fete the pronounced success it was. Mr. Stark, in addition to his vocal efforts, acted as an auctioneer in a capable way. Singing in excellent voice and mak

FLASHED A RAZOR

IN A SALOON James McGrath Arrested on Complaint of Ernest Charles.

James McGrath of this city was ar James McGrath of this city was arrested on Wednesday night in a Bath street saloon by Policeman Myron Morgan after Ernest Charles had made complaint to Sergeant Twomey at police headquarters that McGrath had threatened to slash him with a razor. A razor was found on McGrath but he denied having made any motion to cut Charles.

The complainant stated to Sergeant Twomey that he was in the saloon playing the plano and that an argument started in some way. In the course of which McGrath pulled the razor and drew back his arm as if he were about to slash Charles. Another man grabbed McGrath's arm, preventing any cutting. Three witnesses were secured and summoned to appear in the police court in the morning. The charge on the blotter against the prisoner is breach of the peace.

Will Investigate Trolley Smash.

While there were no new developments on Wednesday in regard to the trolley collision on the steam road tracks above Jewett City on Tuesday afternoon, a hearing will probably be held at the road's headquarters at Hartford in a few days, and then the facts of the case will come out. At present the local trolley officials are entirely at a loss to explain why Pliot Brockett, an old and experienced rallroad man, should take his work car out on the main line in the path of the regular passenger car. He received orders from the steam road at Jewett City and these, which may clear mixters up, will come out at the hearing. Had the work car been three minutes earlier, it would have made Bishop's siding safely, the southbound passenger being exactly on time and reaching the siding at 3 o'clock. Will Investigate Trolley Smash.

In the City Court.

In the city court. Wednesday morning, Judge Brown presiding, a young woman was presented charged with breuch of the peace. The young woman was discharged when the facts came out. She was there accused by a Greek woman whose husband had recently deserted her and with whom the younger woman, who, it is said. the younger woman, who, it is said, has been friendly with the missing man, has boarded. The Greek woman evidently thought that by getting the girl arrested she could be made to tell where the husband is, but her plan failed.

MOTOR-DRIVEN FIRE ENGINE.

One Will Be Here Today for Demon

According to a message he received Weonesday, Chief Stanton expects that the Knox people of Springfield will be here today with one of their motor driven fire-engines for an exhibition test. The chief recognizes that all up to date communities are coming to recognize the value of the motor-driven engine, and its advocates are confident that its efficiency will be demonstrated before the citizens. Chief Stanton expects that the engine will be driven about the city and then probably taken to the Industrial building, where water can be pumped from the Yantic river. The motor which drives the vehicle is the same that pumps the water. The demonstration is pretty sure to attract a large crowd.
